"Whoa Man"

You're the first thing I saw the minute I walked in.
I stood in the corner quietly waiting.
Want to say hello but you are busy dancing,
Through the crowd I can see you spinning around.
You're spinning round.

Well is that a glance?
Is this my chance,Â
To dance for you?
I don't dance so good.
But I stand and nod and I watch you sing.
I don't know the words when the chorus kicks in.
You spin round.
You're spinning round.

And whoa man.
I don't care what they say.
Cus brother I love you and I'm loving your way.
And whoa man.
I'm that little retch your mother said,
Will drag you through the mud and into bed.

And now hastes flung to the ceiling.
Theres something in the air this evening.
It's red in colour and when I close my eyes.
If seeing is believing, well then I need my eyes this evening.
Cus something in the water made me blind.

And whoa man.
I don't care what they say.
Cus brother I love you and I'm loving your way.
And whoa man.
I'm that little retch your mother said,
Will drag you through the mud and into bed.

And now hastes flung to the ceiling.
Theres something in the air this evening.
It's red in colour and when I close my eyes.
If seeing is believing, well then I need my eyes this evening.

Cus something in the water made me blind.
Yeah something in water made me blind.
Yes something in the water made me blind.
Oh something in the water made me blind.
