"Hold It Down"

It's still in the air tonight
The weeping is done
A flame from the spark is the fight
It's over and gone

Long live your loneliness, feel it every way
Until you take your last breath, haunt you everyday

Hold it down when you can't look back and you know that you can give it Honestly I never thought you bad cause I know that you can live it When I come back I'll never take you on, again

Only the strong survive what can you do?
It's on in the heat of the night between me and you

Long live your loneliness, feel it every way
Until you take your last breath, haunt you everyday
