There's a gold crack of light
Climbing up the wall
And the last bell for leaving
Is ringing in the hall

And it feels like a stone
Has been lifted from the world
Running every direction
Without a clue where to turn.

Chorus:
And I hear the sound
Of a tide's rise and fall
And it's getting loud
As it breaks on the shore

And you can't catch an eye
In the street anymore
And the key to the city
Is behind locked doors

So you take what you can
Smooth with the rough
And you get what you wish for
But it's never enough

Chorus
Never enough
