Sitting at the edge of the bed one million thoughts as I reflect. tease me just a little I'm not hard to persuade fully aware for this that I might pay. Not too much that can be said Thinking about the bad things in my head always wondering if what they said was true now I'm in the bed with....even though she was no stranger chose the one keep me out of danger no song and dance just jump right in.

fought the urge to do it-skin to skin what the hell here I go-jump right in standing in the doorway of distress-ask MD, for ways out of this mess, a wave of panick every time I lose a hair I believe I'm falling apart but not quite despair. turns into this one thing I just can't ignore-don't know what I am feeling anymore-I guess it's time to end this affair like I don't care, I don't care.

even though she was no stranger-chose the one to keep me out of danger, no song and dance I took my chances with her no time to waste, just jump right in I said to her-stand in the doorway of distress-no time to waste just jump right in,

what the hell here I do-jump right in
