How many oceans in my life will I sail on Maybe one, and then I'll fly to somewhere new I long to find a friend my life could depend on I've reached a space that I am never getting through

I can hear the sound of distant cries
Closer to the doorway, I know there's something wrong
My vacant smile waits to hear what you will say

I can't wait to feel the snow upon my face
And I can't wait to see a better human race
Falling like confetti from the coolest winter sky
A race to insanity before my very eyes

I can hear the sound of distant cries
Closer to the doorway, I know there's something wrong
My vacant smile waits to hear what you will say

If I could fall asleep in my hands
I'd drift off to somewhere unknown
If I could fall asleep in my hands, I'd drift off in silence

If I could fall asleep in my hands
I'd drift off to somewhere unknown
If I would only see through my plans, I'd drift off in silence
