I surprise the senses with the sting of sight between the color and the black and white of what you see

I feel a stranger coming on to me I brought it on but I can never be the one too get to the point then shut up

ask for her another day ask for something worth the price you'll have to pay

Chorus:
the stakes are up and your odds are down step right up for another round the spade's up your sleeve there's sweat on your brow and I will be damned if I let you back into this town

You disguise intentions with an olive branch you may be * a lot of * except for me the way you speak is contradictory and all the lies you're talkin' back to me why don't you

ask for somethign worht the price you'll have to pay

Chorus

another round
you're goin' nowhere (you're goin' nowhere)

another round
some other town that's goin' nowhere

and I will be damned
if I let you back into this town (repeat x2)

*=bits I missed
