[Killah Priest] From the edge of the night we fly so high Within the misty skies, good bye Seein' flights of devils, flights of angels We over the ghetto, full moon is yellow We see this strange dude, walk, we off the roof We sought to a stoop to a door We locked and disappeared in the foggy air Only to reappear, next year, to the same spot Off the rooftop, we flappin' away-away-away Outta the hood, far over to the woods We land, to take a drink, I'm thirsty, unworthy Near the moonlit, streams, in the night demon It's like a dream, and in the seas we sip We gon', we swift, we too swift Up and up, I feel it in my gut Get ready to come wit me The lost souls come see Beyond a lake, beyond the mountain On a branch in the black tree We quiver, and chill out tonight But nothin' stops us in flight So in pass a million years To a thousand in the hemisphere Pass the hypersphere [Purpose] Rip off the clouds in the atmosphere Disappear into the thin air Yo I'm only seen by human eyes I'm teleportin', drift to the sky Mystique moon rise, I zoom by See the constellations up in close Spirit's formed, rugged ghost, the satellite View on my body, while gon' up in smoke When the sun broke, I awoke And realized I musta drifted far Shit I'm close to Mars on this glowin' star I jumped off, made my way down to the planets' turf There's more sand and dirt It's different then the planet Earth No signs of life forms, just keep the mic warm The sun is further I need more then soul or power to keep the lights on Coldest shit, wind current carries me across a desolate land So treacherous, bankers won't invest in it It's pestilence, like the dust turnin' to rust I wonder what's beneath the Mar's crust? People like us, lost colonies Who rarely couldn't keep a strong economy Use to study planet Earth and talk about astronomy Maybe we are them; maybe they left Mars in rocket ships And landed on Earth to beat apocalypse I started all over in a new world, a new planet Made the journey for survival, yo, but who planned it?
