I've been hearing things voices carry over the water Things i can't deny,
night after night,
night after night,
night
A broken heart
You will know where you've been running around
You will know where you've been out on your own
It will haunt you
night after night,
will haunt you
night after night
And i've been seeing things lights are shining through my eyelids All my great designs
never make out of my sleep
You will know where
you've been running around You will know when you've been out on your own
It will haunt you
night after night
You get high
but you know,
night after night
