Now that I'm older I think I've fallen to pieces
All this responsible life it tears me apart
Just when I thought I could fly I'm on medication
All this money and this work its breaking my heart
I guess I just can't rely only on patience
I guess that I must somehow learn to fly

Growing old out on your own
Growing old, American stone

Sometimes I feel like I've argued all the wrong cases
I never knew it would grow to be this damn hard
Maybe it's time that I find some old meditation
I pray I don't break apart and play the wrong cards

Story: A song about leaving childhood behind.
A song about growing old in 21st century America
