I didn't know the policy
I didn't know how to be
I didn't know I would break so many hearts
That's not part of me

I learned it all at Riverside
How to stand like a king
I should have know it would be that hard on you
Just stand to the heat

This place ain't a sunrise
It's more like a hell
I saw the pain in your eyes that awful day
And I'm sorry to spill
And I'm sorry to kill

I know that you care so what are you waiting for Break from the witch and stand by my side
Jump for her ship and swim for your life/to the sweet other side

I couldn't play the fallacy
I couldn't fall on my knees
I've seen her type so many times before
And she won't conquer me

I learned to fight at Riverside
I learned to walk my own line
I didn't mean for the hurt to fall on you
Just trying to live right
Just trying to be kind

For the right
For the life
Hold the line
Hold the line

NOTE: A song about a past corrupt place of employment and a past colleague torn by the corruption.
