There was a time when I looked at my life,
I was twenty and not getting any older.
But now I find my bones just don't feel right,
Guess I'm carrying a whole lot more,
On these shoulders.

Now I find when I look at my life,
No matter how far this highway takes me,
I see your eyes in that old photograph,
I'm only halfway,

I'm only halfway from home,
When there's no turnin back,
I burned a bridge, yes it's true,
But I could always turn to you,
Yea I'm halfway home,
There's nothing else left to do,
If I can turn this car around,
I'll be comin' home to you,
Yes I'm halfway home.

Now it's time to turn this car around,
I just hope I remember the way,
I thank The Lord above for this small town,
And the girl that showed me the way,
To get this boy back home.

Now I find when I look at my life,
No matter how far this highway takes me,
I see your eyes, and our 2 girls by your side,
I'm only halfway,
I'm only halfway from home
