

The Whiskey Saints

"Green Light"

Looking for that green light
Guide me away from this danger
As I wander towards the berth
Of my wrought iron chamber

With every breath it knows
I just want to be honest
This illuminating glow
Shows its face through the darkness

So why am I standing still
When it's my time to move?
Every signal says to go

All the signals say to go
But I'm just waiting here

It was always steps ahead
Amity was its own choice
It still calls me out of bed
Like a golden distant voice

So why am I standing still
When it's my time to move?
Every signal says to go
All the signals say to go
But I'm just waiting here
