I miss you like a tear lost to a tissue I miss you like two lips who reminisce of a kiss do but I missed you hit the wall behind your head and forced my fist through up to my wrist you cried as I tried to assist you but you withdrew and I kissed you insist we must look past this issue I list new reasons so numerous for our bliss to persist through I miss you its times like these you cannot erase these moments in time which bear no replacing and when the scars are all healed and the battle's been won the damage is already done can we escape this sick cyclical situation or are we always destined to return hit the wall behind your head and forced my fist through regret every word I said as you withdrew and I kissed you but you cried as I tried to assist you insist we must look past this issue I list new reasons too numerous for our bliss to persist through I miss you
