And now our memories fade
You tried for better days
No matter what I say
The world will leave me all alone tonight

It's never right for you
Anything that I do
It must be killing you
That the world's left you all alone tonight

Watching your mouth move
As your speaking to me
Everything you say
Goodbye to I'm sorry

(Hiding my anger disguised in a smile
I think I am dreaming but i'm in denial
How could you do this is my only question
Holding my breath now awaiting the answer)

And now our memories fade
You tried for better days
No matter what I say
The world will leave me all alone tonight
It's never right for you

Anything that I do
It must be killing you
That the world's left you all alone tonight

You ran off to find him
The day that you left me
Not ever expecting
Goodbye and I'm sorry

(I stand at a distance my eyes are tearing
Irony has it's own way of thinking
With confidence growing you ask him your question
But were you prepared for all this rejection)

And now our memories fade

You tried for better days
No matter what I say
The world will leave me all alone tonight
It's never right for you
Anything that I do
It must be killing you
That the world's left you all alone tonight

Worries have come and gone
I leave them in the past
But they always seem to follow me home at night

And now our memories fade
You tried for better days
No matter what I say
The world will leave me all alone tonight
Anything that I do
It must be killing you
