We made our mistakes
And we said our goodbyes
But can we drop this facade
We saw through each other's alibis
And where are we now
I'm asking you once again
And I am holding my breath
Hoping for new beginnings but

What would it take to make you understand
What would it take to make you mine again
What do I have to say in my defense
What do I have to do just say the word

Tell me you know
What it takes
To make you happy
And I'll make it happen

So this is my story
And how it ends is still up to you
Will you kiss me like yesterday
Or tear my heart in two
And I know this is awkward
And the tension is growing here
But what makes it so difficult
Are the feelings we cannot bear so

What would it take to make you understand
What would it take to make you mine again
What do I have to say in my defense
What do I have to do just say the word

Tell me you know
What it takes
To make you happy
And I'll make it happen

(Don't say goodbye)
