If she could ever love again, could ever trust again, her love you loved away, when she was screaming you walked away, her tear stung eyes, tell me how you do it, striking at a angels face, so cold. so empty, words cut like razors, cut deeper than you care to notice, scars of hate. she still bleeds no! seasons streak through he rearview, time heals nothing it never does, falling in falling out another failure, another kid lost another one gone forever, months have come and gone, quicker than a hang-up, that was your defense, screaming at deafened walls, when the doves fly high, and peace graces these days, look in those eyes, I hope it breaks your heart, I hope it makes you choke
