"Walking In The Sun"

the sun is up, its coming down I disconnect the phone for an hour its half past four, I shut the door I'm walking aimless for awhile
I stop by Jed's and have a cup I read the headlines for today I head uptown to central park until my soul has run away

I won't fly, I won't fly away back where the start of gravity silenced me

So I'm walking in the sun ya I'm walking in the sun

Traffic lights, billboard signs strangers pass me on the streets grafitti on the subway car some hand rails, they help me think I'm upside down, but I don't care it doesn't matter anyway so many things I want to change its funny how I can't explain

back where the start
of gravity silenced me

so I'm walking in the sun

sun is up, its coming down I disconnect the phone for an hour its half past four,
I shut the door,
I'm walking aimless for awhile

and I'm walking in the sun
