Your tear walked down from my fingertip
Like a ladybug sidetracked from it's fated trip
We never got to the touching & feeling 'Cause the skin's too sensitive when the wounds are healing
Like ice cream too close to the playground I'm no good for you but you still want me around If you pick the moments when the cheeks were glowing Well and I hope they're enough to keep you going

And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk 'til we understand enough
And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk 'til every word's used up
And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk like this was the toughest love
And then we'll fall asleep

Your pain begins at the point of trust Like life begins at the very flashpoint of lust There's sun and moon in every movement
You can live with it or expect improvement

And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk 'til we understand enough
And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk 'til every
word's used up
And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk like this was
the toughest love
And then we'll fall asleep

And into our dreams
Where we won't have to figure out What anything means
And in there we can do whatever I choose But I'm faithful when there's no way I can lose

And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk 'til we understand enough
And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk 'til every
word's used up

And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk like this was
the toughest love
And then we'll fall asleep
