The Samples
Weight of the World
With my hands I will build you
Castles in the sand
And the promise of a land
That it will keep you
From the weight of the world
They all ran away on our horses
Leaving nothing to be found
They dug our dreams up from the ground
And took our forces from the weight of the world
From the weight of the world
Was life too heavy
Will you be free
You may never get older
It no longer hangs over
So let go of the weight of the world
The weight of the world
Can I please have one more dance with you
Good-bye, all I've held and loved and knew
