Cold afternoon, I sleep in some
Back of the room, avoid the sun
You turn of the light and I lost a long
You called it a night
You had me won

Who told you to leave me all alone?
Leave me in the dark?
Leave me in the cold?
Who told you to leave before I could show
You half of the man you wanted to know?
But I had to face your last goodbye
But I had to face your last goodbye
The look on my face, my blood shot eyes
So who won the war deep down inside?
I can't decide, I can't decide

Only the dark can feel my touch
No kind of remark could burn this much
'Cause I'm as cold as December
And I won't surrender
Until you give me back my life

Who told you to leave me all alone?
Leave me in the dark?
Leave me in the cold?
Who told you to leave before I could show
You half of the man you wanted to know?

But I had to face your last goodbye
But I had to face your last goodbye
The look on my face, my blood shot eyes
So who won the war deep down inside?
I can't decide, I can't decide

I can't see the sun in the morning
Please send me a warning
Before I go through this again

All out of luck
All out of time
Who would've thought I'd lose my mind?

No, I can't decide
I can't decide

Who told you to leave me all alone?
Leave me in the dark?
Leave me in the cold?
Who told you to leave before I could show
You half of the man you wanted to know?
But I had to face your last goodbye
But I had to face your last goodbye
The look on my face, my blood shot eyes
So who won the war deep down inside?
I can't decide, I can't decide

No, I can't decide
