Where do you go when you listen to nobody else but yourself?

Where do you?

You're so far from the willing

You're in such a rush not to tell

So, where do you go?

Oh, when getting in with your feet

It doesn't get you one single thing

Where will you go?

When the secrets that you've been keeping get a hold of nothing at all

I'd like to know

Can I wish you away till you find your place in this world?

It's so hard to get a feel

And all you do is wait for that one little taste

So caught up inside to know what's real

But until you've had all you can take

Can I wish you away?

So where do you go when forgetting what you had in store for yourself drags me along?

Because you keep running in circles

Blinded by everything

Ask me if I know where to go

(Where to go)

Can I wish you away till you find your place in this world?

It's so hard to get a feel

And all you do is wait for that one little taste

So caught up inside to know what's real

But until you've had all you can take

Oh, but until you've had all you can take

Can I wish you away?

Can I wish you away?

You said you'd be gone just another minute

You're too far off to still be in it

Don't act like you're sleeping
When I can see you're wide awake

Can I wish you away till you find your place in this world?

It's so hard to get a feel
And all you do is wait for that one little taste
So caught up inside to know what's real
(Can I wish you away?)

Can I wish you away till you find your place in this world?

It's so hard to get a feel
And all you do is wait for that one little taste
So caught up inside to know what's real
But until you've had all you can take
Can I wish you away?
