

Jeffrey Taylor Poole

"Sweet Diversion"

Visit "Sweet Diversion" on MotoLyrics.com

Do you ever get the feeling that the worlds too damn small?
You can get to the other side of it in no time at all
You can hang with the Dalai Lama and hear his views
Around here every mothers son has got some I can't use
Do you ever get the feeling you've seen it all?
You've been drinking it in for so long you can no longer call your liver small Scarification is in, let's get a tattoo or maybe we could get our noses pierced, I will if you do
I need a sweet diversion
Give me a sweet diversion
Turn on the TV, christ! they're still showing that?
By now everyone in Hollywood must think were all flat
Turn on the radio and hear some of that corporate drool
It's the best damn programming those computers know how to do
Pardon me, I didn't mean to monkey with the works
I know there's a delicate balance and we don't want no one to get hurt
But the 3rd worlds is growing larger and the second world has slowed and here in the first world we wait on the new fall shows
I need a sweet diversion
Give me a sweet diversion
Won't you be my diversion?
My sweet little diversion.

Visit Jeffrey Taylor Poole page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.