

Jeniferever

"For The World Is Hollow And I Have Touched The Sky"

Visit "For The World Is Hollow And I Have Touched The Sky" on MotoLyrics.com

I hear how they talk about things I've said.
Words which never came from me.
What if I thought so but just didn't say so?

'Cause these days I know to watch
what I say.
Sometimes we're better off knowing only parts of the truth.

I used to like it here.
Now it just burns me out,
the presence of something I came across and lost.
And now they might be right,
them who always speak behind your back,
who you call your friends as they're around you
and you find yourself alone.
??
make their days filled with something new.

This is not something new.
You missed the whole scenario.
The part of the picture which make young worlds fall apart.
You didn't know that, did you?
Things which happened last spring.
Could have been the topic of the day at your daily
café.
Now it's just the scene where his eyes fills with...,
as they're not both going home alone.

I hear how they talk about things I've said.
Words which never came from me.
What if i thought so but just didn't say so?
'cause these days I know to watch what i say.
Sometimes we're better of knowing only parts of the truth.

Visit Jeniferever page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.
