

Kruger Kris"Seeing A Rainbow In The Stormy Night Sky"

Visit "Seeing A Rainbow In The Stormy Night Sky" on MotoLyrics.com

We come into this world born free

Free from taxes, free from discrimination

Then something oversees our hopes and dreams

It encompasses all we wish to do, all we wish to become

Our dreams crumble apart as our minds get dumped back to 'reality'

We lose our ambition, we lose our sense of creativity

We have no higher level to achieve, we can only follow in the institutionalized ways of methodical civilization

We keep aback withdrawing our bodies, withdrawing our emotions

We take life as it comes and never question why or look past the thin

surface that wants to be cracked

Yet there still remains those of us who have not followed into the already beaten path

This path may be popular, but is so impersonal that it makes all others better

We take the road less traveled, we take our own roads and eventually make it as we go along

And it is for this we suffer: when others merely frown, we cry; when others

smile, we burn in laughter

We feel more, we get attached more, we experience more and if not for any other reason, this makes us superior

We know what we are looking for

We can see our dream and don't think about the task of obtaining it, but rather at the dream itself

We are few and in that sense, we are precious

It's true though, we too have our hard times, but with someone else like us there, they are easily overcome

It is with our own complexities that we, are our best

It is like seeing the rainbow in a stormy night sky

It shouldn't have its potential decreased until it fill its amplitude

It is like seeing the rainbow in a stormy night sky

Rarely does it happen but when it does it should be cherished forever more

I've seen the rainbow, now where do I go

Visit Kruger Kris page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.