You haven't got a shot
If this is what you want
To push and shove
But it won't matter if I'm gone
You make assumptions everyday
And you always get your way
I only know
What I've been told by you

I always do what I've been told to do
I know

I'm tired of asking why
Can't I just look you in the eyes
And tell you now that it's time to face the truth
I made so many promises I had to bite my tongue in two
This has to stop before I kill myself
Just to burn in hell with you

Let's break this silence
And sing the words that I've been waiting years to sing
I've finally had enough
You've lost what little touch that you had left
So why don't you give it up?

I feel my pulse accelerate
I hope that you appreciate
The steps that I refuse to take
Who's laughing now
I called you out
I called you out

I always do what I've been told to do
I know, I know
I've had enough of you
So give up, and move on
Because you won't get what you want
So give up, and move on
From me

Let's break this silence
And sing the words that I've been waiting years to sing
I've finally had enough
So why don't you give it up?

So why don't you give it up
You've lost your little crutch
So now what's left
Why don't you give it up?
