

Jenny Wilson

"Love And Youth"

Visit "Love And Youth" on MotoLyrics.com

I got a stone in my shoe.
I guess why I sit here with you.
On a bench in park in a town.
You think it might've comfort me, so the kissing has begun

You got the answers, you got the facts.
But I know the truth...
Might have some good lines,
you might be a man.

But I know the truth.
It supposed to be Love and Youth...

When I was sixteen,
I left school with-out telling the teachers any way that where I'll go.

God-bright, I-'m a challange proof.
Hide away all my comic books, hide away from you.
You know the fun outside.
Summer nights out-siide.

Don't got the answers, I don't got the facts.
But I know the truth...
Might be a good time,
it might be the end.

Any how, I know the truth.
It's what they call Love and Youth.

And the guys says to me...
'Look, the horizone for one long line.
Look at the good sky but never on the ground,
you can trace the future there,
come on Willy Young (Come on...)

Maybe where young but that doesn't make us last.
-
Maybe where young but that doesn't make us last.

Looove...
Maybe where young but that doesn't make us last

You got the answers, you got the facts.
But I know the truth...

Might have some good lines,
you might be a man.
But I know the truth...
It supposed to be...

-
Don't got the answers,
I don't got the facts.
But I know the truth...

Might be a good time,
it might be the end.
Any how I know the truth...

-
It's what they call...
Looove and Youth,
Looove and Youth,

I've gone Looove and Youth,
I'm sayin' Looove and Youth,

I got nothing to do with this youth...

-
I got nothing to do with this youth...
(...)

Visit Jenny Wilson page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.