In time we all twist down the spiral.
We are the tasters that bring light to this world.
In time we all twist down, untie, loosen the knot you knew has now come back, and you must face the ground, Untie, loosen a part of you is ripe to die, you must face the ground, I know it's been a long time since we sunk into shadows, and I know it's been a long time since you threw back your head,
and laughed at the blue, so let's kiss the sky, a soft goodbye, behind the black, the blue, the picture less comes to life, what you're wearing is not what you're feeling, what happens when you take away the sky?
In time we all twist down the spiral.
