What color is the light of harmony underneath this darkened sky?
Burning bridges and broken hearts, suffocation has never felt this good Why do pasts leave heart shaped holes in our chests?
I pray for this sky to open up to see a different view Misspelled words never read so clear There is a need for distance and separation from the truths held in our lives Disfigured and misled by what was held in the past
It hurts when wings emerge
The blood stains my back When this all opens up will it wash the blood from beneath my eyes?
I pray for guidance to separate these thoughts Forever has never felt this good to me
