I rise and pour my heart out tonight
Some things that should have not been forgotten are now lost with in ourselves It burns like the open flesh on my arm and reminds me of the days
When the wind would strike
It breaks my mind
Right through the cracks of the floor
Where the rain finds my head
I cry out for guidance, I cry
I find direction in You Please forgive me Jesus for now I know My love has found its place, my love with You Its time to reform and leave this lifeless body next to You
I spread my arms and cry my eyes for Your acceptance has brought me here
I dry my eyes now receive my heart forever I've searched and now I'm found With You I'm at home now
