When the night lingers in the thundering rain
It's making me forget my name
And everything I ever known
And baby

When the night turns everything I love into war
Like nothing that I know is for sure
And everything I ever know-ow-own
Is so far from home

I wanna know what love is all about
But first I'm going up and then I'm going down
Suddenly it's like I never seen the sun before
And do you see
I wanna feel the lightening in my hand
That underneath it all, there's got to be a plan
Then I can understand what the hell I'm looking for

Somehow ended up alone
But I can't believe I wanted this phenomenon
'Cause I don't ever sleep at all
Stop now
Stop you're leading up again
I can't believe I wanted this phenomenon
And I, I hardly need to call

When the night lingers in the thundering rain
It's making me forget my name
And everything I ever known
And baby
When the night turns everything I love into war
Like nothing that I know is for sure
And everything I ever know-ow-own
Is so far from home

I wanna cool my fever in the rain
I'm burning like a moth attracted to the flame
But better that I burn than slowly fade away
And do you see
I wanna feel the lightening in my hand
That underneath it all, there's got to be a plan
Then I can understand what the hell I'm looking for

Somehow ended up alone
But I can't believe I wanted this phenomenon
'Cause I don't ever sleep at all
Stop now
Stop you're speeding up again
I can't believe I wanted this phenomenon
And I, I hardly need to call

When the night lingers in the thundering rain
It's making me forget my name
And everything I ever known
And baby

When the night turns everything I love into war
Like nothing that I know is for sure
And everything I ever know-ow-own
Is so far from home
