She tells him what she saw and heard today
She opens up her heart
The only one she's got here in the world
He forgot how he lived without her
But also what he has found in her

Rememberin' the first time when I saw her
I should feel like that everyday
Take care of what you've got as long as you've got it
It's the only change you have

She tells him what she saw and heard today
But he doesn't even know
What happened only five years ago
He forgot how he met the one he loves
And how his life was changed from above
