out of nowhere this gust of wind brushed my hair and kissed my skin i aimed ato hold a bridled pace when with love itself i came face to face pullin' back the reins trying to remain tall in a saddle

when all that we had well ran away
with a will of its own

i know your soul is wild and free like this galloiong inside me tossed by instinct and where we land is vast and certain of all that's planned you know, i learned to break the run and gently harness the love of someone yes, and equal parts of wait and trust is in control of the both of us
