"More To Love"

I used to think that love was a night game
I'd just go home before the morning came
But no one ever knew me like you do
When you are around, I don't wanna leave you.
'Cause there's more to love than love in the night
more to love than holding you tight
When the night is through I still want you.
There's more to love
Though part of me may be satisfied
the heart of me will never survive
When the night is through I still want you.
There's more to love
And if you run from me to a new love
'cause you're afraid I won't be true love
And if he whispers "Love" and it feels so right remember lies come out the midnight, oh oh oh
There's more to love than love in the night
More to love than holding you tight
When the night is through I still want you.
There's more to love
Though part of me may be satisfied

the heart of me will never survive
When the night is through I still want you.
There's more to love
Now I'm always thinking of you trying to count the ways I love you Think of all the things that we have shared
There's more to love than love in the night
More to love than holding you tight
When the night is through I still want you.
There's more to love
Though part of me may be satisfied
the heart of me will never survive
When the night is through I still want you.
There's more to love
There's more to love
More to love
There's more to love
More to love
