a pool of tears reflects your face one tear explodes and the mirror breaks one drop of you is so hard to find in that pool of tears you leave behind everyday your love wears a different face {everyday goes on and on the face i used to know where did it go} everyday reveals another fall from grace can't you reach inside and bring to me the face i used to know a whispered word through a closing door starts the silent war i've heard before one wash of color from your waterfall drowns the face that i try to recall everywhere i go
i can see you again
a shadow that i know one step ahead of my soul {everyday goes on and on} {and all around you can't be found again} {inside the face i used to know} {where did it go where did it go} everyday reveals another fall from grace

{everyday goes on and on the face
everyday reveals another fall from grace
