i get dizzy with fear
when i need her here i know i'll drown in her wake when she appears it's hard, it's hard, it's hard to keep my mind clear when all my body wants to do is shake before i can keep her away she's here to ease my pain
miss sympathy
stay away from my door
i know what you came here for
don't cry for me
miss sympathy
i can hear all the others calling out to her and she goes to them just the same once they breathe her name she presses her lips to mine to apologize
but i'm the one who is sorry now

stay away form my door

say away from my door

her flowers are fresh

but i'm deep in debt

i've taken too much

and now i regret

that i ever let her in how can i ever get her out

i know whta you came here for

'cause i don't need anymore

@SOND: never been away

and still come back the same

how long is the trail

that will not fade away

well i don't know if i could ever go back to that place
what we think that we don't need is easy to forget
out of sight and out of mind and we have no regrets
the longings that grew disappeared when i saw you it's like i've never been away everything was clear
just like yesterday
i thought you were a drop in a deep black ocean
came flooding back to me
some things never change
always stay the same
how far can we got and still return over the ask of the bridges we've burned how far can we got and not forget
