"Eve Of The Emerald Sun"

Emerald rays pierced the dusk that morning
Painting a dull sickly color into my mind

The eve of the emerald sun was upon me
Denying me warmth, casting no shadows
My eyes were cold as I gazed into the sky
And all that was known was no frozen in glass

No angels voice, no devils whisper
Only this empty silence of nothing
I'm so alone, I feel as stone
And all that I touch, shatters into dust

So let this end, and bring this sorrow down
You'll never see the silence, you'll never know my pain
So let this be, I'll take this worthless life
I'll bleed the yet fallen tears, this is the last sleep...
No distance voice, calls for me
The light is dim, as it casts no shadows
My voice is cold, my sense is numb
My world has faded, my heart is empty...
