So long since I've been near you I've been busy doing nothing wrong
I once told you I'm drifting from time to time from town to town All these years I've tried not to give away too easily what I can't weigh or measure the things that set me free

Don't know what I'm doing here
Lost my head when I hit the ground
Don't know what I'm doing here
I'm always losing something
Ran out of luck on my way back home

So long since I've seen you I almost forgot your name I've always tried not to worry then most things stay the same Guess I've seen too many faces been drifting far too long I've searched in so many places for the things that make me strong

Don't know what I'm doing here
Lost my head when I hit the ground
Don't know what I'm doing here
I'm always losing something
Ran out of luck on my way back home
