

Through The Eyes Of The Dead "Dead End Roads"

Visit "Dead End Roads" on MotoLyrics.com

We've been down this way so many times before
And walked a million miles in the shoes of a hopeless
man
Forever embedded in despair
Destined to find his way home
This borrowed time is running out
And these hollow roads are getting old
So let this be a lesson
A violent introduction
To a life of absolution
I do not believe what I see
When the clouds part way with the skies
I hold no responsibility for the things I have done
This is all I am
All I have known
An escalating horror
A never-ending nightmare
I do not believe what I see
When the clouds part way with the skies
I hold no responsibility for the things I have done
I do not blame the locust for devouring the world
It is their destiny to destroy
Trust me when I say that this will hurt
We've been down this way so many times before
And walked a million miles in the shoes of a hopeless
man
Forever embedded in despair
I do not believe what I see
When the clouds part way with the skies
I hold no responsibility for the things I have done
I do not blame the locust for devouring the world
It is their destiny to destroy

Visit Through The Eyes Of The Dead page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.