When i first set eyes on you who would have thought that this could be. I found it oh so true but yet so hard to believe anticipating the first kiss of which would follow many more. To the feelings of missing you we both had we both had a wicked weekend im not giving up on you, make room for the space you need as long as your heart finds its way... finds its way back to me. take that first step to your door dont you dare regret dont say those things you said to me again unless you ment it on the fourth of july we watched the colors splater the open sky but they're not as beautiful as you are anticipating the first kiss of which would follow many more to the fellings of missing you we both had... we both had a wicked weekend

Im not givin up on you make room for the space you need as long as your heart finds its way finds it way
on that remore when i got the curage i swallowed my pride and i asked you to go with me
pride and i asked you to be with me... im not giving up on you make room for the space you need as long as your heart finds its way finds its way back to me im not giving up on you make room for the space you need as long as your heart finds its way back to me take that first step to your door dont you dare regret dont say those things you said to me again unless you ment it
