"Walk Away"

Heavy clouds follow me
Try to run endlessly
Sudden change in temperature
Pressure taking over
Distant thunder crashing, getting louder and louder

As I walk away, a change in atmosphere
There's nothing left to say
The skies begin to clear
The rain has fallen now
The storm is passing
And it's over, it's over

Light around me starts to fade
Couldn't last another day
I can feel the distance getting further and further
Reaching out you touch my skin
It feels so cold, I'm shivering
I can hear the silence getting louder and louder

As I walk away, a change in atmosphere
The skies begin to clear
The rain has fallen now
The storm is passing
And it's over, it's over

As I walk away, a change in atmosphere
There's nothing left to stay
The skies begin to clear
The rain has fallen down
And it's over, it's over

As I walk away
The storm is passing and it's over
