

Elm Treason

"Honey Feet"

Visit "Honey Feet" on MotoLyrics.com

Well, it changed when I first saw you.
And just like that, I adored you.
It wasn't your smile or dress.
It was the way you took your step.

Hey, hey woman with the honey feet.
You got that glide and you look so good to me.
You're stepping one, two, three.

Don't need shoes, just let those babies breathe,
and let me see those honey feet.

Now, honey, when you first walked by,
I didn't even see your eyes.
With your toes painted rhythm and blues,
I had to have you.

Hey, hey woman with the honey feet.
You got that glide and you look so good to me.
You're stepping one, two, three.

Don't need shoes, just let those babies breathe,
and let me see those honey feet.

Well, it changed when I first saw you.
And just like that, I adored you.
It wasn't your smile or dress.
It was the way you took your step.

Hey, hey woman with the honey feet.
You got that glide and you look so good to me.
You're stepping one, two, three.

Don't need shoes, just let those babies breathe,
and let me see those honey feet.

Visit Elm Treason page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.