Since you been around honey
It feels just like a cloak
Has been wrapped around me
And nothing can ever go wrong
Since you been around honey
It feels like a thousand stones
Have been lifted off me
I've never felt so strong

Nobody knows what they should believe
It could be lies but when I come back home to you
I realize and know the only truth and I've got to let you know

Since you come along the troubles in my mind have gone
And I insist on being everything you've wanted for so long

Since you been around honey
It feels just like a cloak
Has been wrapped around me
And nothing can ever go wrong
Since you been around honey
It feels like a thousand stones
Have been lifted off me
I've never felt so strong

Nobody knows what they should believe
It could be lies but when I come back home to you
I realize and know the only truth and I've got to let you

gone
And I insist on being everything you've wanted for so long

Since you been around honey
It feels just like a cloak
Has been wrapped around me

And nothing can ever go wrong
Since you been around honey
It feels like a thousand stones
Have been lifted off me
I've never felt so strong
