I'm most at home in darkness Burned and blinded by the day it weighs heavy on my heart
But I take strength from its harshness
For my spirit shall ascend as darkness falls upon the earth

An ashen-faced ghoul like a white spider
With only poison and contempt for you lives
You can keep the daytime and your suffocating world
Just be sure to understand
The night's mine!

I roam under summer moons and through autumn fields
Searching... for my Vampira girl
I wander every graveyard from each lonely roadside Tonight could be the night

When the night comes down
A figure in the twilight that you cannot see
When the night comes down
The moon promises she'll bring you back to me
Are you lonely, are you lonely?
Are you lonely, when the night comes down?

Bitter fruit of the day's frustration
Traded for the night's lonely dream
In the mournful quiet the past seems so close at hand
But the future, I hear it calling, calling to me, calling...

Lonliness, heartbreak, and fear have walked by my side
I know them like old friends
As the sun is setting, I feel my strength returning Everything seems alright

When the night comes down
A killer who sits and waits for anyone
When the night comes down
The kiss of two lovers broken only by dawn

Are you lonely, are you lonely?
Are you lonely when the night comes down?

I've waited for so long, waited so long
Why can't this feeling last forever?
This feeling... That I feel...
When the night comes down
