"Shadows"

Lurking in the shadows there's a silence that sees your every move
It sees the way she looks at you and everything that you do.
It feels the sparks between you but knows that it's not right
It defies the theory that real shadows only come out at night.

CHORUS:

I would give anything to be with you,
To be the one you think about at night.
To be the one wrapped up in your arms,
The one you're holding tight...

And people just don't realize,
How much it hurts... sometimes.

It's so hard to be silent in my dark hiding place
Not to reach out to you, not to touch
your face.
But I'm getting tired of thinking of what could have been,
I'll crawl back in the shadows and watch
you slip away from me again.

CHORUS:

I would give anything to be with you,
To be the one you think about at night.
To be the one wrapped up in your arms,
The one you're holding tight...

And people just don't realize,
How much it hurts... sometimes.

And there is no way that you can ever know
That I just can't let you go

CHORUS:

I would give anything to be with you,

To be the one you think about at night.
To be the one wrapped up in your arms,
The one you're holding tight...

And people just don't realize,
How much it hurts... sometimes.

And people just don't realize,
How much it hurts... all the time.
