So who would dare speak?
As we listen to the wind silent whispering your name and reminding Everlasting
On this night much is given and we're taking every blessing that we find
We look upon the perfect field of green
When looking for the earthly reasoning
We come across a new discovery in these the last hours of day
How fortunate we were just to have this time
We always looking for what we haven't got
We might soon be gone / keep it in mind
So don't treat it casually / those with eyes will see

So we gonna stand in this memory
Ghosts will sing we've been surrounded by the beauty
of
All that they have to bring / we can never be fearful
So we gonna stay in this reverie
Ghosts will sing / we're in the presence of a greater

Ghosts will sing we've been surrounded by the beauty

All that they have to bring / we can never be fearful
So we gonna stay in this reverie
Ghosts will sing / we're in the presence of a greater love
Gave with every note he played
We won't be forgetful

So we give our love to the people who would make this possible
We gonna live for those who come and gone before
If only we could ask of them one question more
How do we show our trust?
These notes from us I hope you find acceptable
Due to you the life you knew but could not hold
We will accept for those who lost their fight for love
So we gonnaâ€¦!
