A baseball glove in the second grade put this little scar on my chin
And at 31 they put glasses on me when I couldn't tell an
"h" from an "n"
I bounced back from all of that Nothin's ever bothered me Until you put the lonely on me You put the blue, you put the fool, you put the tears on my face
You put the rain in an otherwise sunny day
Baby, you.....you put the lonely on me

Now every little thought is a bridge to cross 'cause everyone's a memory of you First they make me sad then they make me mad then they make me wanna forget the truth I bounced back from all of that 'til I see you out on the street
And then you put the lonely on me Well, now you put the blue, you put the fool, you put the tears on my face
You put the rain in an otherwise sunny day
I can't recover
I can't get over watching you walk away
I get all shook up when I think about losin' your love Baby you....you put the lonley on me
