I remember everything
Remember everything she said
Yeah back and forth I run it through my head
Like a hurricane, you get stronger as I spin
Yeah how could I ever forget

Words are never accidents
Words are always what they seem
They're over, under, never in between
Lack of evidence, yeah you always leave the scene
I'll never say never again

Every now and then I feel my hopes erased
By the memory of your face
Sometimes late at night I see my dreams replaced
By the memory of your face

Letters that I'll never send Pictures that you'll never see
The only thing that's left of you and me
It's the time we spent, drifting on a bitter sea
I would not say no

Every now and then I feel my hopes erased
By the memory of your face
Sometimes late at night I see my dreams replaced
By the memory of your face

Oh
Every now and then I feel my hopes erased
By the memory of your face
Sometimes late at night I see my dreams replaced
By the memory of your face
Every now and then I feel my hopes erased
By the memory of your face
Sometimes late at night I see my dreams replaced
By the memory of your face

I remember everything
Remember everything she said
I'll never say never again
