

Emma Forman

"Gerry's Prediction"

Visit "Gerry's Prediction" on MotoLyrics.com

Gerry I'm sorry, I was listening
Gerry I tried but it was too hard
You said, don't let her go or you will regret forever
You told me the truth on that train journey

We talked about love and we argued some You tried to give me a guitar I wouldn't take Gerry I'm sorry, I watched you throw it in the bin in a fit of rage
Gerry I'm sorry, you said I should've known you Gerry you were right, I should have known you

Gerry, oh you were right about love
Gerry, oh you were right about love
But I walk alone just like you predicted
I walk alone just like you said
I'll be alone just like you predicted
I'll be alone just like you said

Gerry I'm sorry, I was listening
Gerry I'm sorry, I really tried
I know you loved that song and you wanted to know about her but I wouldn't say
Oh Gerry, you were right about love
Oh Gerry, you were right about love
Oh Gerry, you were right about love
Oh Gerry, you were right and I tried but I failed and I'm sorry
Gerry I was listening, I know you stormed off in a fit of rage
And put that expensive guitar in the bin
I watched you walk away
I watched you walk away
It must have been worth over a thousand pounds and I watched you walk away
You said it was no good to you but I don't why you were so damn sure it would make me a better musician
Oh I don't know you believed in me

