It's been a long long time
I've always been pleased to see you when you did arrive
But I've not always opened the door
Infact, never once
I've always left you standing cos you never get it right
You never get it right Baby, it's not that much to ask considering what I've gaven up
Considering what I gave
It's not that much to ask

Cos didn't I show you everything you desired and so much more?
And no other has ever done that, no other can
No there ain't a single soul that can do that
And I can do so much more, you'll probably never know

Didn't I show you what you lacked?
Didn't I show how to love?
Didn't I show you everything you wanted?
Didn't I show you how to be you?
Didn't I show you how to feel what you wanted to feel?
Didn't I give you what you lacked?
Gave you what you lacked
Gave you what you lacked

Baby, oh you can do it your way but in the end you'll come back
And stand there again, we both know that
And one day if you manage to impress me then maybe
I might just open that door
One day I might just open that door
One day I might just teach you mor
