I begged you not to break no more hearts I told you we have come full circle I begged you not to do your usual I told you we should be stronger their little hearts just break like shattered glass underneath your feet the weight of all you place on them I hear them crumbling, crumbling shattered glass
shattered glass

shattered glass
shattered glass

Things have got to change
We have got to be better oneday, better oneday Oh things have got to change we've got to grow up eventually Can't keep breaking their little shattered hearts
Can't keep breaking their little shattered hearts

breaking their little shattered Shattered glass, shattering Shattered glass
underneath your feet their crumbling, shattered glass underneath your feet their crumbling, shattered glass All I hear, those little shattered hearts, crumbling All I hear, those little shattered, crumbling crumbling underneath the weight you put them shattered glass, crumbling all the shattered glass oh they crumble under all that pressure that you lay on them all that pressure that you place on them Oh those little shattered hearts
